The Tangled Skein-

Two men were talking by the sea Of what had been and what might be, And as the first his hopes made known The tide open the bar made moan.

"The boon I sak of fate is fame-A world-known and an honored name I sak not love. Let that pass by, If fame be mine, that cannot die. Those in the valley seek for love : My feet must climb the heights above."

"I ask not fame," the other said ; "What matters praise when I am dead? Be mine the boon of love and home, From which my feet may never roam. The lowliest path will pleasant be If love is there to walk with me."

Ah strange indeed, the ways of fate, The tangled threads will not come straight !

The world has never heard his name. With wife and children by his side, His neighbors think him satisfied. But by his hearth he often hears The great world's praises in his ears, And wonders vaguely which were best, The hill's wide view or valley's rest?

To him who asked for love and home, Came fame, and ever he must roam. Through all the world his fame is known, But he goes on unloved alone. Men envy him. They can not know The human heart that hunger's so For love and home. Below he sees, With longing eyes, the valley's peace. But up the hill he climbs alone; He asked for bread and found a stone. Oh, sorely tangled skein of fate; a girl deals out to her father a day or two before the time she is going to ask for a new dress. A women's chiropodist-at Brighton, England, has placed this legend above his door; "Hell hath no fury like a woman's corn."

Some time, God grant, the threads come straight. VARIETY.

The Persian says that " ten measures of talk Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats Furnishing Goods, Ladies' and were sent down from heaven and the woman took " The first Persian caught on the street will no doubt suffer for this.

A French lady, who was expecting her third child, asked her first born, a boy of six, whether he would rather have a little brother or a little sister. After reflection a moment, he said : Mamma, I have a little brother already, and if it is all the same to you, I would rather have

A serious looking individual drew this dish toward him, saying, apologetically, "This is a fast day with me." His next neighbor, an Irish gentleman, immediately in-serted his fork into the fish, and transferred it to his own plate, remarking, "Sir, do you suppose MPORTER AND COMMISSION MER-CHANT. The Virginia City Enterprise tells this story Two men hailed each other from the opposite banks of a stream and exchanging greetings, many friendly questions were put and answered. The men were evidently delighted to meet each other, and their only regret appeared to be that they encountered one another in a place where it was impossible for them to clasp and shake hands. the river not being fordable on account of its swiftness and the rocky and treacherous nature of its channel, while the nearest bridge was five miles above. Both men lamented these unfortunate circumstances very much, but at length a way of getting over the difficulty suggested itself to one of them, whose pet name was "Groncho

"I say, Sam !" cried Broncho, "It's a little rough for old friends and neight as to meet away out here, thousands of miles from home, and then have to part in this way. Got yer pistol with yer?" " oried Sam ; "allers carry her."

"Legood! That's some comfort; if we can't get dross this yar stream to shake hands, why, thar's nothin' to prevent us from takin' a shot at each other. Jist ride up to your left thar a rod or two. Thar, now, jist one good neighborly comfort to meet an old friend and neighbor like him away out here in this wilderness place. A kinder, more accommodative and agreeable gentleman never lived. I wouldn't a-missed sein' him THE " HEY!" FEVER .- Up Woodward avenue a piece is one of those men, who even if he understands perfectly well any inquiry addressed to him, invariably replies 'Hey?' and the inquiry must be submitted again. The world has tens of thousands of these 'heys?' but until the other day this Detroiter was the worst of all. Along came a sranger the other evening who might, and might not have known of this man's eccentricity. Entering the store he remarked

" I want four pounds of sugar." " Hey?" replied the other. " I said I wanted a susage-stuffer," continued

" What-bey?" " I asked if you had pickles in vinegar," coolly remarked the stranger. " I-want-a-gallon-of-turpentine," slowly returned the stranger.

"Bless your soul, but I don't keep it!" suddealy exclaimed the citizen. " I didn't suppose you did." " Hey?"

"L said I'd take some liver pills in the place No doubt the dealer had heard every single word of the entire conversation, and he didn't like it very well, either, but habit prevailed, and he again called out, "Hey?"

"Calico! Calico!" shouted the stranger. "I've asked you a dozen times over if you had any good, eight cent calico?"
"No, sir-no, sir-no, sir!" was the indig-

THE UNDERSIGNED. AGENTS OF THE Boston Board of Underwriters, notify Masters of Vessels and others that all bills for Repairs on Vessels, and all bills for General Average purposes, must be approved by the Agent of the Boston Underwriters, who must also be represented on no newspaper man or reporter having said one word in re to it, I shall, therefore, blow my own horn. It is only rec to it, I shall, therefore, blow my own horn. It is only recently that Carriages has become so common that almost every householder has got one.

IN THE SCRIPTURES, Carriages or Charlots are frequently alluded to. Upon the flight of the Israelites from Egypt, King Pharaoh pursued them with Six Hundred Charlots, all of which were swallowed up by the waters of the Sted Sta. And when Israel made up his mind to pay his son Joseph a visit, Joseph telegraphed the old gentleman to come down to Goshen and he would meet him there and drive him down to Egypt in a Jaggon, (wagion.)

Charlots and Carriages were mostly used by Kings and Grandees on state occasions.

The Greeks and Romans had Charlots; but strange to say, it was as late as the sixteenth century, in 1550, that Carriages were introduced into France, and at that date only three were known in Paris, then quite a large city.
